Haematology: Presentation, Prevention and Possibilities

Wednesday 22 October 2025

13:00 - 17:00

Online

Topics include:

- Benign haematological problems, including thrombosis prevention
- Optimal management of sickle cell disease
- Innovative new therapies, including immune therapies

Following this event attendees will have gained an insight into the efficient management of common presenting signs and symptoms, optimal management of rare disorders (partnership of generalist and specialist), and awareness of newer, innovative therapies and when they should be used.

All grades of medical, including trainees and generalists, specialist nurses, pharmacists and GPs are welcome.

Register online for live attendance or catch-up.
